

A Note from the Director . .

Summer months tend to be times with less structure. The lack of typical routines often bring the onset of challenging behaviors . During this time, be sure to set and enforce boundaries. Practice compassion for yourself. In the words of Brene Brown, "Compassionate people ask for what they need. They say no when they need to, and when they say yes, they mean it."

Extended School Year at our Antioch Campus was full of exciting field trips and events on campus. The highlight of our summer included a visit from goats, ponies, and a horse complete with lessons given by our very own cowboy, high school teacher, Carlos Gomez.

Activities also included picnics in local parks, an excursion to the mall for our mobility class, The Sensory Room, Blue Goose Water Park, and Delta Bowl.
